According to devotees of ancient architectural beauty mention that Mangkunegaran Palace is the best preserved ancient Javanese architecture in town. Mangkunegaran is the only palace in Indonesia opens its private domain for public. Pura Mangkunegara is traditionally a palace of Mangkunegaran State ruled by Mangkunegara I and his descendants. Historically, this state was founded Raden Mas Said or Prince Sambernyawa in 1757. Near, Mangkunegaran we will visit Triwindu Market. Triwindu Antique Market is the center of excitement for collectors of antiques. Also known as Windujenar Market. You will be greeted by a pair of statues, a man and a woman sitting in the cross legged position. Solely dedicated to the sale of antiques, the atmosphere in Triwindu differs from other markets. The building market is a two story, wooden structure that has stood since 1945, adding to the “antique” feel of the building. Then we will drive you to Danar Hadi Museum. Danar Hadi Museum was founded in 1967 by H. Santosa Doellah to preserve batik in the city of Solo. This museum presents a collection of the best quality batik from various regions such as the original batik of the palace, Chinese batik, Javanese Hokokai batik (batik influenced by Japanese culture), coastal batik (Kudus, Lasem and Pekalongan), Sumatran batik and various other types of batik. The museum has a collection of 1000 pieces of batik cloth and has been recognized by MURI (Indonesian Record Museum) as the museum with the most batik collections. In the afternoon we will drive you Sangiran Museum. Sangiran Museum, Sangiran is an archaeological excavation site in Java in Indonesia. According to a UNESCO report (1995) "Sangiran is recognized by scientists to be one of the most important sites in the world for studying fossil man, ranking alongside Zhoukoudian (China), Willandra Lakes (Australia), Olduvai Gorge (Tanzania), and Sterkfontein (South Africa), and more fruitful in finds than any of these. An important feature of the site is the geology of the area. Originally a dome was created millions of years ago through tectonic uplifts. The dome was then eroded exposing beds within the dome which are rich in archeological records.
